

Sex Magic Basics

by Diana Rajchel

The average reader may have flipped to this entry because its title includes the word "sex." Good move, though really this article covers aspects of sex far prior to foreplay—so only the really creative may find this information prurient.

Generally speaking, interest in sex comes from a combination of human nature and cultural programming: people like to have sex, yes, but we are also told this over and over to the point of saturation. Occultists, being people, like sex as much as anyone, and as they often use materials and actions to raise energy occultists have found that sex works really well for producing the emotional and metaphysical state necessary to alter the structure of internal and external reality.

Sex magic works according to the same principles of other forms of magic. The sexual act raises energy and intention toward
